DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential elements, such omission amounting to a gap between the elements. See MPEP § 2172.01. According to Applicant's claim, any propellant that comprises an alkane with carbon from 15 to 80 will have a liquid viscosity less than 1 milliPa-sec and surface tension of less than 25 milliN/m. "Comprising" scope allows for any other ingredients to be included. Since other elements (or lack thereof) are required in order to meet these claimed properties, one of ordinary skill in the art would not be able to determine what compositions would meet these limitations without undue experimentation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 49 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Stickler(5,529,648).

Stickler discloses a fuel composition for use in hybrid fuel engines that comprises alkanes from 25-40 carbon atoms (col. 5, lines 35-40) that is combusted with a conventional hybrid rocket oxidant. The fuel and oxidant are kept separate until they are fed into the motor for combustion. The viscosity and surface tension are inherent properties of this fuel. As to limitations which are considered to be inherent in a reference, note the case law of In re Ludke, 169 USPQ 563; In re Swinehart, 169 USPQ 226, In re Fitzgerald, 205 USPQ 594; In re Best et al, 195 USPQ 430; and In re Brown, 173 USPQ 685, 688.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 49 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nichols et al(5,616,882).

Nichols et al discloses a rocket fuel that comprises alkanes from 1-20 carbon atoms.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the fuel as taught by Nichols with a hybrid rocket engine since Nichols suggests that it can be used with any rocket fuel application or space-based application requiring a high energy fuel.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 14 and 50-53 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 5/26/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments regarding the Stickler and Nichols references are not persuasive. Please note that claim 49 is of "comprising" scope and may include any other components. Stickler does suggest alkane in a hybrid rocket fuel with carbon of 25-40 and Nichols suggests a rocket fuel that comprises alkanes from 1-20 carbon atoms. Applicant's arguments focus on the a_{onset} criteria that is present in claim 49. As is noted by the 112-2nd rejection, this language is unclear and there is not way to ascertain the metes and bounds of this claim.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
